Early this Morning—Little is Known as to How it Happened-Brakes man Killed at Moundsville-A Child Scalded to Deaths

About half-past twelve o'clock this morning a yard engine working in the Baltimore & Ohio yards, on the river front, ran over and completely cut in two in the middle, Thomas Pearson whe kept a saloon at the corner of Twenty-third and Market streets. Why Pearson was in the yards at that time, and how was in the yards at that time, and how was in the yards at that time, and how was in the yards at that time, and how the accident occurred is unknown, the trainmen having notified others of the occurrence, and proceeded to Benwood, which place they were bound for when it occurred. The remains were gathered up and taken to Blatchby's undertaking to hold an inquest at 3 o'clock.

The man's body was horribly mangled, and bears little resemblance to a human being. The face and head were covered with mud, and the entrails and addiction to the fact of the land, as he did at the wind and organs were scattered about the track.

Narrow Escape from Death in Jim Hunt's Barber Shop Wednesday Morning.

of Frank Robinson and claiming Elmyra, N. Y., as his home, was made the vichands of some other colored individuals ber shop on Chapline street a few doors last Wednesday morning. They poured al-cohol or gin on the bosom of his shirt and then applied a match to the saturated garment. A great blaze burst out on the breast of the sleeping man and he awoke filled with the wildest terror. He started to run about the shop hals from cars in the Baitimore & Onio yards.

In Part II, the taking of evidence in the case of Wilbur Jacobs vs. Klevis, Kraft & Co., was concluded and the arguments begun. Mr. Summerville opened for the plaintiff and was followed by Mr. Russell for the defendants; Mr. Hubbard, also for the defendants, will follow Mr. Russell this morning and Judge Jacob will close. vainly endeavoring to beat down the

ror. He started to run about the shop vainly endeavoring to beat down the flames that were eating their way into his breast and causing him the most intense pain, and would probably have burned to death had not Bill Tarner, a well known young colored man who happened to be in the shop, knocked Robinson down and smothered the flames with a heavy overcost.

The lojured man was placed on a cot in a dark room in the rear of Hunt's shop and his badly burned body swathed in cotton soaked in linseed oil.

An effort was made to keep the affair quiet, but yesterday the police learned of the matter and a colored man who heard of the unfortunate man's condition, got a physician to call and see him. The breast is so badly burned that suppuration is certain to take place. The physician called in said the burn was a very bad one and might result fatally, but he did not apprehendesuch a result if the man was properly cared for. Yesterday afternoon an order was cotten from County Commissioner McGinley for the removal of Robinson to the Infirmary, where he was taken last evening.

In a number of saloons it is the custom to get rid of loafers or "sleepers" by giving them the "leg-burn" that is putting a few drops of gin on the leg of their pants and then firing it. This is supposed to be what it was proposed to practice on Robinson, but too much of the liquid was poured on, and besides a close-fitting cotton undershirt is an entirely different thing to pour the stuffon and then light, than a heavy pair of pants. Robinson is about 22 years old and came home two or three weeks ago. He has been running errands and doing old jobs since his arrival here, making his headquarters with the gang that loafs about Hunt's place.
